

Privacy Policy

The doctors and staff of this practice are committed to giving you, our valued patients, the best possible quality care and service possible.

We protect your privacy and treat all patient information including health and financial details as private and confidential.

We have developed and documented a privacy policy according to current privacy laws.* Doctors and staff of this practice abide by this privacy policy and understand that a policy breach is grounds for dismissal.

Our Privacy Policy states:

- What type of personal information we collect
- Purpose of collecting your personal information
- How we collect and store information
- How we use, protect and disclose information
- That we need your consent to collect your information
- That you have a right to access your information
- How to access your personal information
- That you may discuss any concerns you have about how we handle your information
- How you can make a complaint about a possible privacy breach

If you would like more information about our privacy, or how to access your health record, please ask your doctor or see reception.

 Commonwealth Privacy Act - Privacy Amendment (Private Sector) Act 2000*